Revalidation data report summary

1 April 2025 – 31 March 2026

nmc Nursing & Midwifery Council

High revalidation rates help ensure that more professionals remain eligible to practise. Having sufficient numbers of nurses, midwives and nursing associates with the right skills contributes to the safety and quality of care people receive, as well as their overall experience of care.

In the last 12 months

94.5% revalidated, the highest since revalidation began.

94.0% of those educated in the UK revalidated.

93.6% of those educated in the EU revalidated.

96.3% of those educated outside the UK and EU revalidated.

Revalidation rates have remained broadly stable across the professions over time and continue to reflect the overall composition of our Register.

Revalidation rates remain consistently high across the four UK nations, while the rate for professionals practising outside the UK has increased but remains lower.

England 95.0%

Scotland 94.1%

Wales 94.1%

Northern Ireland 94.4%

Outside the UK 75.5%
